New Treports as follows; it will be observed that the market there since that time has fallen below what the Bulletin appears to have anticipated: "Spinners showed a disposition to continue their purchases which have been noticeably more liberal since the last concession of sellers, and, while there was still an ab-sence of export trade, holders, with an improved demand for consumption, maintained the figures current during the few days, with more firmness than has been shown of late. For future delivery there was an advance of le over yesterday's figures, with a moderate bus-iness on this tasis. There was some response to the rather improved aspect of affairs on the spot, and it is understood the advance was also due to the fact that there is a moderate amount of cov-ering done on successful short sales, by parties desirous of making the profit at once as assured beyond further risk."
